

Yield Increase in Pea Cultivation

Our pea farmer managed their irrigation from the start of the season to harvest by monitoring it through the stations installed in their field.

By following critical irrigation thresholds, they ensured their plants' needs were met with the right amount of water at the right time.

14% Yield Increase

At the end of the season, it was observed that the product's calibration and color were better compared to neighboring farmers.

